ABDUCTION FOR RANSOM.

The recovery of the Whittia boy, and the capture of the abductors, bring several questions to the front. One is whether they shall be punished for blackmail in Ohio, or for abduction in Pennsylvania. The penalty in the latter case may be life imprisonment, and all parents probably hope that the prosecution will be for abduction, and that the extreme penalty will be inflicted.

It is very fortunate that the abductors were captured, and particularly that the ransom money was recovered. These facts will tend to discourage others from undertaking the abduction of children. Had Boyle succeeded, he would probably have had imitators, men who would be less careful of the abducted child than were he and his feminine aid, of the Whittia boy. Would-be abductors have learned from this case how difficult it would be to escape detection. With the people of the whole country awake to such a crime, escape would be practically impossible, and in some localities the penalty might not await the action of the law.

Legislatures are taking up the matter of providing more adequate penalties for child abduction for ransom. Pennsylvania stands alone in having now the penalty of life imprisonment, and it is not too severe. Other states should take similar action and it might be well to also authorize state rewards of sufficient amount to stimulate the pursuit of abductors.

A country-wide check should be placed upon this crime which is really an importation.

Very properly the House has killed the "bumper" bill, the purpose of which was to check automobile speed on approaches to corners, curves, etc. The purpose was right, but the method was objectionable. Bumpers, the existence of which would be unknown to automobilists, might easily cause fatal accidents. The House exercised excellent judgment in rejecting the bill.

It is not difficult to foresee a conflict in the House, in which the Republican "insurgents" and the Democratic regulars will line up against the Democratic "insurgents" and the Republican regulars, over a proposed rule, emanating from Speaker Cannon and his pocket committee on Rules, which will limit both amendments to and debate on the tariff bill and will also cut off yeas and nay votes that might embarrass Republican members desirous of currying favor with tariff reformers while really working against tariff reform. With the aid of the Democratic "insurgents," the Speaker will quite probably be enabled to work his will.

Mr. Carnegie told the Ways and Means committee that steel rails did not need protection, as the American producers can, and do, compete in foreign markets. Yet the committee placed a protection of $3.32 a ton on them. This simply means that the producers can exact a price larger by that amount from their home patrons, than they will demand in foreign markets. It may be said that the railroads are able to pay this enhanced price, but who does not know that in the last analysis the burden falls upon the patrons of the road?

According to Democratic Leader Clark, the pending bill does not revise the tariff downward but upward, its average duty being 1.6 per cent, higher than the average of the present tariff. If this be true, the Republican platform promise is not fulfilled, but in justice to the revising committee, it must be said that the averaging of duties is exceedingly difficult and its results not always trustworthy. As the Senate Finance committee is constructing an entirely new measure, it matters little how the Payne duties average, for there will undoubtedly be wholesale changes, to which the Senate will as undoubtedly adhere firmly in the conference committee.

Hartford reports an advance of 1 to 1.2 cents per pound in the wholesale prices of beef, with a refusal to give reasons and a disinclination to sell even at the advanced prices, which indicates an expectation of further increases. So far as known, there are no conditions calling for increased prices; it appears to be a purely arbitrary action on the part of the Beef Trust, its monopoly of the market enabling it to follow its caprices or its greed.

An experiment at the Storrs Agricultural college has proven that steers can be fattened and marketed in Connecticut at a profit, not of large amount but sufficient to perhaps induce farmers to undertake a revival of what was once a profitable industry. To Western competition in steer-fattening may be largely attributed the existence of so many abandoned farms and so much relegation of former pasture land to the growth of bushes and weeds. Beef Trust boosting of prices, for no better reason than greed of inordinate profits, may effect a welcome and profitable change in Eastern agricultural pursuits.

The New Jersey House has passed a public utilities bill, based upon the New York act. It is safe to predict that measures of similar character will eventually be passed in all states. There is a healthy and growing public sentiment in favor of curbing the rapacity of public service corporations, and it is particularly directed against the prevalent practice of over-capitalization which forces the people to pay increased charges in order to provide for dividends upon capital that does not represent cash but is merely "wind and water."

If public utility commissions did nothing but estop this practice, they would confer a great benefit. Unfortunately, they cannot shake out the "wind and water" which are already capitalized and have turned many promoters into millionaires.

FAIRFIELD

Grass Fires—A Local Artist—The Hallock Will—Concert Tonight—Personal Matters.

Owing to the storm the ladies of the Missionary Sewing Society decided yesterday to postpone their meeting and supper until another day. One of the ladies had baked their cakes to carry to the church, but there will be fresh ones when the postponed meeting is held.

There were a number of grass fires in town on Wednesday which came near being dangerous. One of them started on Unquowa place and another in the rear of the residences of Selectman Fox and Postmaster Pickett. Vigorous work on the part of the neighbors saved the buildings.

This town has an artist in the person of Prof. Harvey Swann of the Hargrove school, who has executed a number of illuminated Easter cards which can be seen at Jackson's in Bridgeport. As the work is free hand and original many people will be glad to possess one of them.

It is known in town that there will be a contest over the will of the late Eugene Lacy Hallock, who, it will be remembered, after making a will in which there were several important bequests to public institutions she revoked the same shortly before her death by a codicil in which she left practically everything to her hired man. The contest has been put in charge of the Bridgeport law firm of Stoddard, Marsh and Stoddard.

The former mansion on Main street, is receiving a new roof of shingles. Mrs. William Taylor has returned from a visit to New York.

A daughter was born last Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mickett. Mr. John Byer, long in the employ of Wallace M. Bulkley, is on the sick list.

To-day the Friday Afternoon club is being entertained by Mrs. E. R. Osborne. A. C. Acker, chairman of the board of assessors, was in Hartford, Wednesday, where he appeared before the Finance committee at the invitation of Tax Commissioner Corbin to explain several proposed changes in the present assessment laws, and also to advocate a uniform and adequate compensation for assessors in the several small towns.

FINEST HAIR IN TOWN

Conclusive Evidence That Parisian Sage Grows Beautiful Hair
"I have tried many hair restorers, but have found Parisian Sage the only one worthy of that name. My hair was falling out, and I was troubled with itching scalp, and I found it impossible to keep my hair in any condition for any length of time. It also was becoming to look faded when I began to use hair restorers. I tried many, but no noticeable benefit until I tried your Parisian Sage. After using two bottles I now have the finest head of hair in this town. I noticed after the first application the itching and dandruff disappeared and my hair became soft and glossy."

Miss Thelma Root, Webster, Mass., writes: "I have used Parisian Sage for several months, and I can give you a full and entire drive away from any scalp disease, or money back. Ladies should use Parisian Sage, because it is really the most delightful hair dressing in the world. It turns hard, lusterless hair into beautiful, luxuriant hair in two weeks. It cures dandruff because it kills the microbes. Remember, Levery & Bro. sell it under a strong guarantee. You do not live near a drugist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to G. H. Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and you will promptly receive a bottle by express, all charges prepaid."

NOTICE.

AN AMENDMENT TO THE ORDINANCE RELATIVE TO THE OPERATION OF ELEVATOR IN THE CITY HALL.

Be it ordained, by the Common Council, of the City of Bridgeport, that Section 3 of the Ordinance adopted September 18, 1905, and amended as to said Section 3 by Ordinance adopted May 6, 1907, (said Ordinance being one relative to the operation of elevator in the City Hall and to employment of elevator boys) be altered, and amended so that it shall read as follows: Section 3. It shall be the duty of you do not live near a drugist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to G. H. Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and you will promptly receive a bottle by express, all charges prepaid. Adopted, March 15, 1909. Approved, March 25, 1909. Attest: L. J. GILL, Assistant City Clerk.

BRIDGEPORT IN THE OLDEN DAYS

Temperance in 1814

It is generally supposed that temperance was not a popular movement with our forefathers. A copy of the Republican Farmer printed in March, 1814, contains the following: "Drunkenness and Gambling.—In New Jersey an act has been passed to vest in trustees the estates of habitual drunkards and gamblers, and to prevent drunkenness and gambling. After the conviction of these offenders no act or deed is valid in law respecting their estates."

The editors of the Farmer add the following on their own account: "And great is the pity that such a law does not exist in every other state, town and society in the world. The Farmer at that time covered a good portion of New England. Newspapers were not then as frequent or as cheap as at present. The Farmer had subscribers in New Hampshire one of whom sent the following account of a wedding: "EXTRAORDINARY MARRIAGE."

"Cupid Takes the Doves." "It is said of the ancient Athenians, and strangers who were there that they spent their time in nothing else, either to tell or hear some new thing."

"The following singular occurrence will probably add to the stock of wonders, and give new life and energy to those who have exhausted the old stock of tales, and are ready to famish for want of something new to tell or hear."

Married, on Wednesday evening, the 8th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, Messrs. Searer and Josiah Stoddard twin brothers, of Rye, and Miss Emily and Almira Sill, twin sisters of Moreau, aged 23 years. The oldest brother took the youngest sister and vice versa. The two couples stood together, hand in hand respectively, and were united in the bands of wedlock by one ceremony.

"It is said of those gentlemen that they are respectable Farmers; that they hold their property in common stock; that they calculate on this method of living in future; and that they had mutually agreed not to marry, unless they could find help meets as nearly allied, in birth and friendship as themselves. It is proved that heaven has favored their wish, and put each in possession of his favorite rib."

"The ladies are the youngest children of Deacon Giles Sill and Lucy, his wife, who are persons of respectable standing in society."

POINTS OF INTEREST.
The Boston Household Supply Co. sell all kinds of house furnishings on easy weekly payments.

Radford B. Smith certainly has a lot of new bargains this week. See the window, chaises, swiss, muslin, lawn, etc., that have just come from New York. These will be on sale Saturday at about the lowest prices ever known. Also a lot of men's underwear at about half price. It will pay to buy this early.

Drink Bartholomay's Rochester Lager or Miles' ale, both bottled by M. J. Maloney at 86 Jones avenue and delivered to any part of the city. They will add zest to the appetite and aid digestion. Order by postal card or call 2424-A on the telephone.

Smith's Pale Ale in bottles is one of the specialties of the Bridgeport Distributing Co. of 103 State street, next door to the Public Market. It is fully equal to the Dog's Head brand but sells for about one-half the price. They also carry a full line of both imported and domestic wines and liquors, ales and lager beers. Send trial order. Telephone 264-3.

The idea in buying silverware is to select a design which will please the eye and one that you will not tire of. G. W. Farchild & Sons, have their own exclusive patterns which are designed with this view in mind. As is the case with all their different lines the prices are moderate, the quality the best. All engraving is done free of charge by a force of skilled engravers.

Dinner at Carr's? Why not? It will be a good dinner, well cooked and well served in a pleasant dining room and may be washed down with a few glasses of beer wine as the patron prefers. After 8 in the evening there are a number of private dining rooms and anything in season will be cooked to your order. The Sunday dinner, served afternoon and evening, cannot be excelled. Try Carr's, Cannon street, and you will surely be pleased.

Ready for Spring Suits? So is Sam Harris at 1154 Main street, who has received some of the noblest spring styles in suits and top coats ever shown in the city of Bridgeport. Latest in cut, fabric and make, of the best materials, fully warranted and at the two prices of $10 and $15. Many of the best dress suits in the city wear Sam's suits. Why not get wise and see Sam while the season is young and get the pick of the lot.

The Bijou. A picture change at the Bijou today, when a brand new bill of big class films will be shown. Among them is "The Star of Bethlehem," a beautiful religious picture, shown while in motion, Mr. Swigg will sing afternoons and Mr. Bly will sing at night. "The Holy City." This is something new in the moving picture business but we are always doing something new. This great picture will be today only, as we change every day. Yours truly, the Bijou.

Good, sweet and rosy butter at 28c per pound. This butter is a rare bargain. Goose, duck and chicken eggs all fresh and new, look in our window for prices. Full cream cheese, mild with a rich flavor. Pure lard 12c per pound. If you want the best coffee produced get the famous Boston coffee the 1775 brand 30c per pound. Good coffee 15c, 20c and 25c per pound. Choice teas 15c, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c per pound. The People's Dairy, 130 State St., Telephone Geo. A. Robertson, 588.

Typewriter Supplies. The modern office is equipped today with many labor saving devices of various kinds. The typewriter no doubt has been one of the potent factors in said labor saving writing, saving time and pronunciation. In order to read a typewritten letter easily and distinctly it is necessary to have a good grade ribbon from which you print. A strip of cloth with black on it will not answer for this purpose. The ideal grade of ribbon manufactured by the Carter Ink Co. of Boston is no doubt the highest grade of ribbon made in this country. If you do not wish anything quite as good you can get one that doesn't cost quite so much and will give very satisfactory wear. Carbon paper that doesn't smut and disfigure the letter can also be found in any size or color at Jackson's Book Shop, 988-988 Main street, where you will find an assortment of erasers, oil and brushes and all the little things that go along with the typewriter. You will also find displayed the Burroughs Adding Machine, as they are the depot for Bridgeport distribution.

Cornelius N. Burch Dead.

Cornelius N. Burch, an electrical engineer of the New Haven road, who received a heavy electric shock while at his work in the Stamford railroad yard, Feb. 14, died Tuesday afternoon. The direct cause of death was pneumonia, but even if this had not set in, complete recovery would have been doubtful, as the man was terribly burned about the arms and face. Had he lived, he probably would be blind, as his eyes were also burned.

18 Fat Steers.
Frank M. Briggs of Sherman, shipped last Saturday to Jersey City eighteen of his fat steers that he purchased last spring. These steers averaged 1,417 pounds each, and each had gained 425 pounds. Mr. Briggs has six more head.

Killed by Gas.
James Donovan, aged 56 years, a nightwatchman who has been in the employ of the Stamford Gas and Electric Company for about sixteen years, was found dead Wednesday, in the governor house, a small apartment near the gas-holder of the company. Death was due to asphyxiation. Medical Examiner Sherrill testified that it was accidental. The asphyxiation was due to a hose connecting a small gas heater with a pipe on the wall of the room. The end of the hose which had been fastened to the heater got loose, probably while the man was asleep.
